Fears Rise of Tunisian 'Grab'

Moroccan Troops Occupy Sahara Regions In Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — Moroccan troops occupied areas of the Algerian Sahara today in a new challenge to Nationalist Premier Youssef Ben Khedda's moderate regime. Fears arose that Tunisia also would try to make good its claim to parts of the oil-rich desert.

Already reeling from internal turmoil that threatens civil war, the Algerian leaders were shocked and disillusioned by the land-grabbing move of Morocco's King Hassan II. But the Ben Khedda regime appeared powerless to move against the Moroccan occupation until it had set its own house in order, and the Algerian leadership split was as wide as ever.

Keeps Up Criticism

Rebellious Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, the radical leftist who split with Ben Khedda on the eve of Algerian independence, kept up a steady drumfire of criticism of the Algiers' regime from his refuge in Cairo.

In an apparent play for military support, he accused Ben Khedda of wanting to liquidate the 140,000-man Nationalist army and the "popular revolution." Defining his economic policies, he said: "Frankly, I mean socialism."

In Rabat, Mohammed Khider, a Ben Bella supporter who resigned from Ben Khedda's cabinet last week, accused Ben Khedda of trying to seize power in Algiers illegally. Khider and other Ben Bella supporters have seized possession of the Algerian Nationalist legion in the Moroccan capital.

The Moroccan move was disclosed only three days after Algeria was proclaimed independent from France. Algerian officials said Moroccan infantrymen moved into several desert posts in the area of Tindouf and Colomb Bechar.

Tindouf, a lead mining center, is about 60 miles inside Algerian territory from the Moroccan border. Colomb Bechar, an important French military base, is about 15 miles inside the border. Apparently no Algerian troops were in either area and French troops there made no move to interfere.

In Rabat, Moroccan officials denied any invasion of Algerian soil claiming that Moroccan troops merely had occupied frontier territory considered to be Moroccan. It was apparent, however, that Morocco did not consider the territory negotiable. King Hassan reportedly had already received leaders of local tribes in the occupied areas and they swore allegiance to the Moroccan crown.

Medicare Plan Okay Predicted

Passage by Senate Seen Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sponsors of President Kennedy's social security health care plan for the elderly predicted today it would pass the Senate by next Wednesday or Thursday.

Their confidence was bolstered by a voice vote defeat Friday of a Republican substitute in the first voting test—but not a very conclusive one—on the strongly disputed legislation. Only about 15 senators were present at the time.

The substitute was offered by Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky. He proposed that the program be financed from general revenues of the treasury and provide federal payments for private health insurance premiums for persons over 65.

Democratic leaders originally had pushed for passage of the administration plan this week. But their hopes were dashed by absenteeism over the Fourth of July holiday and determined opposition from foes of any Social Security approach.

Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he probably would be willing to consider a limitation on debate by next Wednesday. Dirksen blocked such a time limit Thursday, contending there was a need for further discussion.

Sponsors of the administration proposal agreed Friday in response to reporters' queries that the plan also would raise the minimum Social Security retirement payment.

The reason is that one method of obtaining additional revenue in the Kennedy plan is to raise from $4,800 to $5,200 the annual base on which Social Security taxes are paid.

This would boost the funds available for retirement payments since the portion of the Social Security taxes used for this purpose would also be applied to the addi-

Franko Appeals Court Sentence

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has heard an appeal by former Youngstown mayor Frank R. Franko from a $500 fine and suspended jail sentence stemming from a civil service proceeding.

Mahoning County Common Pleas Court suspended Franko's 10-day jail sentence last Sept. 5 contingent upon good behavior and proper respect for the court. An appellate court affirmed the decision.

Franko told the high court Friday he feels the trial court abused its discretion.

The proceeding Franko was tried for involved removal of Paul L. Fleming as Youngstown's civil service commissioner.

2 Admit Taking Estes Money

Freeman Suspends Farm Aid Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dramatic confessions of two federal farm aid officials that they accepted money from a Billie Sol Estes emissary spurred wider ranging investigations today on several fronts.

On the verge of tears, Louis N. Dumas, 52, and Arthur Daniel Stone, 55, top officials of the McIntosh County, Okla., Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS, admitted Friday that they had received $1,640.80 from an agent of the Billie Sol Estes enterprises last summer.

They said they had lied about it under oath and had reported none of the money on their income tax returns.

Both men said they are amending their tax returns belatedly, and both tried to resign. But Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman rejected the resignations and suspended them instead—the start of a move to slam down bars against permitting either man ever again to be restored to the agency's payroll.

Although county officials, they drew their salaries—estimated at $6,000 to $8,000 a year—from the federal government.

It was not indicated immediately if any criminal action would be brought against Dumas and Stone.

The confessions of the veteran officials, ending careers that began in the 1930s, came as the Senate Investigations subcommittee rounded out another week of hearings aimed at finding any evi-

4 Stadium Lighting Bids Under Study

The Board of Education received four bids prior to the noon deadline Friday on a contract to revamp the lighting system at Reilly Stadium. Supt. Paul E. Smith said the bids will be made public at the monthly meeting of the School Board July 16.

Cost estimates for the new lighting system have ranged from $15,000 to $20,000. This includes the cost of taking out the present light poles and putting new ones up behind the bleachers.

There currently is $15,650 in a stadium lights fund. This includes $10,000 from the School Board, $5,000 from the school athletic fund and a total of $650 donated by the Boosters and Kiwanis Clubs. The high school athletic board has agreed to lend the School Board any additional money necessary to get the lights installed before the first football game here Sept. 7 against Ashland.

New Jersey 'Pioneers' Surprised By Reception In Salem

Almost Got Lost; Caravan Moves West

By GLENN SCHOTTEN

The "wagon train" from New Jersey rolled into the state of Ohio Friday in a state of confusion, but quickly overcame the inconvenience to set up camp at Centennial Park.

One wag remarked: If the pioneers had had as much trouble getting into this part of the country as this caravan did, Salem, Ohio, might never have been founded.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIVE people, three dogs and a cat, were expected to arrive in a car long trailer-truck caravan south of the city. Mayor Dean Cranmer and his welcoming committee was all prepared to give the group the glad hand, but the leaders of the "wagon train" had other ideas. The entourage came across the turnpike and the New Jersey state highway patrolman led the cars off at the North Lima interchange. Other segments came in on Route 62 and it was a confused batch of "pioneers" that arrived in downtown Salem.

The lead vehicles, the patrol car and a "historymobile," were part way through Salem before local police caught up with them to bring them back to Centennial Park for overnight camping. But the travelers, making the

3,200-mile trek to Seattle, quickly recouped. Soon bathing suits appeared, the 29 Jersey youngsters headed for the pool, and various colored tents mushroomed in the shaded park.

Babies were fed and adults prepared to cook their long-delayed

"noon" meal about 2:30. Despite a bad start the group forgot the misadventure and settled down to learning something about Salem.

The unexpected route of arrival left a number of amateur photographers, summer-clad children, and older men, all hoping to see a parade, in the lurch on S. Lincoln Ave.

WAGONMASTER HENRY Warnaar reported only one mishap along the route from Salem.

Mediation Bid Rejected by Rail Unions

CLEVELAND (AP) — The nation's railroads and the union leaders of 200,000 rail operating employees appeared today to be routing their long and bitter dispute over manpower economies on a track leading back to the White House.

It was from a presidential commission that a recommendation came last Feb. 28 to eliminate 40,000 freight train firemen and affect other manpower economies. Negotiations between the carriers and the unions on the report opened April 2 and broke off June 22.

Meeting here Friday, leaders of five operating unions rejected as "premature" an offer from the National Mediation Board to arbitrate the dispute. They want to negotiate some more.

The carriers, who had accepted the arbitration, want no more bargaining. Through their chief negotiator, J. E. Wolfe of Chicago, they declared the action of the union chiefs left no alternative but to serve notice on the unions the recommendations will be made effective.

Wolfe, who was in New Orleans, noted the railroads could not act

Other Test To Be Fired As Planned Above-Ground A-Blast Is Postponed by AEC

CAMP MERCURY, Nev. (AP) —The Atomic Energy Commission scheduled two above-ground nuclear blasts today—the first atmospheric shots here since 1958—then postponed one of them.

The AEC said the delayed shot would be held up at least 24 hours but gave no explanation for the postponement.

Both shots were described as low-yield devices and their scheduling came amid unconfirmed reports that troops are en route to Nevada for a battlefield test early next week.

Both are slated to be detonated only a few feet above the ground. Low yield indicates an explosive power of 20 kilotons—equal to 20,000 tons of TNT—or less.

The United States has announced 42 underground nuclear explosions at the Nevada test site since the resumption of testing last September, including Friday's 100-kiloton hydrogen blast. Today's device is the first to be exploded above ground this year, however, since this nation, the Soviet Union and Great Britain agreed to halt nuclear testing Oct. 31, 1958. The agreement was broken by the Soviet Union, and both that country and the United States have been holding atmospheric tests in the Pacific.

Secrecy shrouded today's activities. All roads onto the site were closed.

The military nature of the shot was indicated by a statement that the Department of Defense, not

Legal Dispute Bars Return Of Soblen

LONDON (AP)—A complex legal wrangle loomed today over runaway spy Robert Soblen's last-chance gamble to cheat American justice.

Soblen himself lay in the hospital behind the grim gray walls of London's Brixton Jail—protected, for the moment, by one of the oldest laws of England.

A writ of habeas corpus granted by a high court judge Friday kept the 62-year-old fugitive safe for at least another 10 days.

The writ blocked his immediate return to the United States—and a life jail sentence for spying for the Soviet Union.

Soblen's attorneys followed this move with an application that he be granted asylum in Britain.

The Home Office announced it could not consider this application until after the habeas corpus hearing July 17. And Soblen cannot be shipped out of the country until

Plane Vanishes On Approach to Bombay Airport

Fearful Down In Indian Mountains Or Arabian Sea

BOMBAY, India (AP) — An Italian jetliner carrying 94 persons vanished in a heavy down-pour today while approaching Bombay's Santa Cruz Airport. Hours of search failed to reveal any trace of the aircraft.

Alitalia Airline headquarters in Rome said they assumed the DC8 had crashed.

The airliner, reported carrying 85 passengers and 9 crewmen, was flying from Sydney, Australia to Rome.

No Trace Of Airliner Hours later there was still no trace of the airliner, which could have gone down in mountainous terrain surrounding Bombay or in the Arabian Sea, which lies only two miles from the airport.

It was not known whether there were any Americans aboard. The plane set out from Sydney with stops scheduled in Darwin, Singapore, Bangkok, Bombay, Karachi, Tehran and Rome.

The Indian government alerted all planes flying in and out of Bombay to keep a close watch for the missing plane which reportedly lost contact near Aurangabad, 200 miles northeast of here.

Officials said stormy weather delayed immediate dispatch of search planes, but police sent out radio patrols to scour greater Bombay's 197 square miles, some of which are sparsely populated. Planes Suspended Search

An Indian air force airliner took off at dawn accompanied by an Indian airliner, but the low cloud cover forced them to suspend their search.

Indian naval vessels were also pressed into the search.

Alitalia officials said in Rome that all the airline's planes bound west from Bangkok carry enough fuel to overfly Bombay if necessary and carry them to Karachi or Tehran. They said airport officials in the Pakistani and Iranian capitals were being alerted for possible search operations.

The plane's route lay across India's Western Ghat mountain range, which has peaks up to nearly 9,000 feet.

The plane was scheduled to have reached Rome at 7:25 a.m. Word that the airliner had disappeared followed five major plane disasters this year.

2 Killed In Crash Of Air Force B47

ST. FRANCIS, Kan. (AP)—An Air Force B47 jet bomber exploded in the air over northwest Kansas Friday night after radioing that an engine had caught fire at 32,000 feet and the co-pilot was bailing out.

The co-pilot, who landed across the Nebraska border about 8 miles from the crash scene, was the only survivor of the crew of three. He is 1st Lt. Howard J. Steen, 29, of Fergus Falls, Minn. Steen escaped with minor injuries.

Killed were the pilot, 1st Lt. Douglas Powell Bishop, 28, of Elberton, Ga., and the navigator, 1st Lt. Harry Dan Welborn Jr., 27, of Baldwin Park, Calif.

There was no immediate explanation as to why Bishop and Welborn did not parachute too.

The explosion came just after sundown and was seen as far away as Dighton, Kan., 140 miles to the southeast. It shook buildings over a wide area in the northwest corner of Kansas.

High Altitude Test

Delayed Third Time

HONOLULU (AP)—The United States delayed again today for 24 hours its third attempt to explode a high-altitude nuclear blast over tiny Johnston Island in the Pacific.

Joint Task Force 8 officials said unfavorable weather caused the delay.

Clouds hovered over the antenna-dotted test island since mid-afternoon and high winds and rain squalls were predicted nearby.

Clear skies are necessary for the proposed one megaton blast so scientists can photograph the shot.

The same shot was delayed the previous night, also apparently because of high winds and possibly for technical reasons.

It was to have been the United States' third attempt to detonate a high-altitude blast in the current test series, which began last April 24.

Efforts to explode a similar warhead 200 miles high fizzled on June 4 and June 19 when missile troubles developed.

LUTHERANS BELIEVE...

In two sacraments.

At the outset, it must be clear that a sacrament is a sacred act. It's an act of God upon man.

In order that an act be considered a sacrament in the Lutheran Church, it must possess three things—a command of Christ, a heavenly promise, an earthly element connected with His Word.

Therefore, only two acts fall into the category of a sacrament, namely, baptism and holy communion.

Baptism was commanded by Christ when He said, "Go ye into all the world, baptizing..." It has a heavenly promise in that the Bible declares, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." And the earthly element, of course, is water.

Holy communion sometimes is called the Lord's Supper, the Sacrament of the Altar, the Eucharist.

It was commanded by Christ on the night in which He was betrayed, when He instituted it and said, "This do..." The promise also comes from His lips—"This is My Body... My Blood... for the remission of sins." Obviously, the earthly elements are bread and wine.

Lutherans believe that God Himself acts upon them in baptism and holy communion.

FISHERMEN

Dad and Butch are both getting a big kick out of this. If Butch catches a fish — even a minnow — it's hard to say who will be the prouder.

We suspect, though, that it will be Dad. He'd probably give this little man all the fish in the ocean, if he could!

He is giving him things that really count. Good clean fun and happiness, a sense of sportsmanship, and that special man-to-man bond between father and son. And because his son means so much to him, Dad takes Butch to the services of their church each week.

Boys have to do a lot of growing to get to be men. It takes a lot to keep them growing the right way. Weekly church and church school attendance is a big step forward. Don't keep your child from taking it!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Out of the Government Pocket

Pressure for action this year to cut income taxes across-the-board is piling up on President Kennedy, who originally favored putting off a general tax reduction until next year.

The pressure is coming from a rare combination of forces—business, labor and Congress. The fact all these segments of the political and economic community are in favor of tax-cutting action explains why the proposal is for across-the-board reductions with every taxpayer getting his share of the slice.

The basic argument in favor of quick action is the need to spur the nation's economic pulse, which has been thumping along at an unspectacular pace despite political promises and selected nostrums advanced by the Kennedy administration.

LABOR argues a cut in the lower brackets would increase the spending power of the workingman-consumer and thus perk up the economy. Business argues a cut in the upper brackets would give a boost to much-needed investment capital. Congress argues one is as important as the other to do a real job on the economy.

Many economists support the idea of an income-tax reduction over-all on the grounds present rates are direct descendants of wartime rates designed to put a clamp on consumer spending as well as to finance the war effort. The present economic situation, they contend, does not justify continuation of such high rates for either investors or workers.

There is logic in all the arguments. The danger we see is omission from the discussion of one basic point: From whose pocket is the refunded revenue going to come?

The answer is plain: It ought to come from the government's pocket. This is the only alternative to deficit spending, which is out of line even at the present un-reduced tax rates.

IF THE LOSS of revenue resulting from a general tax reduction turns out to be merely a larger federal budget deficit, the economy will not really gain anything.

If, on the other hand, the federal budget is balanced at the same time taxes are reduced across-the-board, a real gain can be made in spurring both the economy and the people's faith in it.

Ah, from economic considerations, a tax cut always looks rosy. But leaving economic considerations aside would merely be a continuation of the kind of folly that has marked finance for too long, through boom and recession alike.

People have talked for a long time, with no noticeable results, about the desirability of cutting nonessential government spending. There would be no better time to stop talking about it and do something about it than when the proposed across-the-board tax cut takes effect.

Evils of Bureaucracy

The nation's governors voted approval at their annual conference last week for a proposal by Ohio's Gov. Michael V. DiSalle that each state be allowed to keep 5 per cent of the federal income tax collected within its borders to be used for education.

The resolution was not a flash-in-the-pan, election-year gimmick on Gov. DiSalle's part. He had submitted the idea at earlier conferences, carried on considerable correspondence concerning it with his fellow chief executives and it had been researched by the Governors' Conference administrative staff.

Gov. DiSalle, like other state and local officials, is acutely aware of the repressive effect high federal taxes have on efforts to solve governmental problems at home. He shares with many people — officials and citizens of both political parties — a belief that the greatest challenge and solution to this nation's future lies in education.

THE PLAN endorsed by the governors is suggested as an alternative to the usual forms of federal aid to education offered to Congress in the past. Its cost to the U.S. Treasury is estimated to be about equal to the cost of the Kennedy administration's federal aid plan. But it has several advantages over other proposals.

It would avoid the specter of federal control over state and local school systems which cannot be avoided in any system which allows the federal government to decide how and where funds will be disbursed.

It would prevent the pork-barrel approach to federal education appropriations which is not good on the state legislative level but would be infinitely worse on Capitol Hill.

It would avoid the argument against other federal-aid plans that rich states would finance the school systems of poorer states.

IF AN administrative system could be worked out to retain the funds in the respective states without sending them to Washington first, the DiSalle plan would eliminate the administrative drain on money that accompanies its flow through the federal coffers.

Some of the governors suggested during debate on the proposal that 5 per cent is too high a figure. That may be, but, as Gov. DiSalle himself replied the figure is not so important as the principle involved.

Congress has no obligation even to consider the governors' resolution. But it is certainly more worthy of consideration than many of the other federal-aid-to-education plans it has expended considerable time and effort studying and debating.

A youth gets a girl on the string and shortly he's on a leash.

Congratulations!

Friendly, soft-spoken Bill Kaminsky may be a bit weary from the handshakes of well-wishers Sunday as he marks his 50th anniversary as a druggist, but his spirit will be nourished by the deserved accolade.

In addition to a half-century of service as a pharmacist, he has been a good citizen and a merchant dedicated to his profession and his community.

Congratulations, Will!

Jazz In July

By Richard Spong

The Jazz Festival at Newport, R.I., is only one of many this month; one could say, however, that its interest to the public is almost as much sociological as musical.

The question this year is whether the crowd can be kept in hand, or whether a rather dismal story of beer and beatniks, sweatshirts and sneakers, rowdiness and riots will be repeated.

For a time it appeared that the Newport Jazz Festival, established in 1954 by George Wein, a jazz authority, instructor, entrepreneur, and musician, and Louis and Elaine Lorillard, had made the Rhode Island harbor town the summer jazz capital of the nation.

In later years, however, an ugly element began to infiltrate the audiences.

College boys and girls—and a good many others who had never set foot on campus—dressed in sweatshirts and blue jeans and guzzling beer, descended on Newport. The beaches were filled with sleeping young people and some who eschewed sleep.

Altercations with the police multiplied. Finally, riots caused the close of the 1960 concerts ahead of schedule. Youngsters hurling beer cans fought virtually pitched battles with the police.

A good deal of ill feeling was engendered on all sides. The city fathers wanted no more of the festival. Court skirmishes ensued.

NEW PRODUCERS took over last year for what was billed as Music at Newport. The emphasis was still heavily on jazz, but the program was broad enough to include Judy Garland, a woman with a lusty voice but hardly in the jazz tradition, and Bob Hope, who, as it turned out, had to cancel at a disconcertingly late moment.

More importantly, the town and the producers cooperated in police control to a remarkable degree. Some 300 volunteers were hired—at $3 a hour—to augment the 77-man Newport police force. The producers and the city government shared the $20,000 added expense.

Snow fences were erected at strategic intervals along Memorial blvd. The narrow access streets to Freebody Park were strictly controlled.

No beer parties were allowed on the beach. Special ordinances gave police emergency powers to control possession and drinking of liquor and beer, though beer was sold inside the park.

The sneaker and sweatshirt crowd arrived by the thousands. But, as Variety later reported, the real story was in the way in which the "beer-guzzling, dirty-sneakered riff-raff were either kept out or controlled if they did come."

THIS YEAR George Wein, the pianist who was a founder of the festival, and who in winter runs the Storyville nightclub in Boston and teaches jazz at Boston University, is back as a producer and also as a performer. He is running on a tight budget. But the stars will be as big as ever. Among them, to name a few, will be Duke Ellington, Louis Armstrong, Count Basie, Dave Brubeck, Carol Sloane, the Providence belter who is a Newport find, and the Warsaw Wreckers from Poland, who went over big at the first International Jazz Festival in Washington in early June.

In a way this Newport Festival will be a test. Numerous other festivals are scheduled this summer, notably at the Berkshire Music Barn, at Las Vegas, and at Monterey, Calif. Their proprietors will be watching what happens at Newport with the fingers of both hands crossed.

"Now Don't You Start!"

U. S. Drives On Rackets

Victor Riesel has asked a number of prominent Americans to be his "guest columnists" while he's enroute to Europe. Today's columnist is the attorney general of the United States.

By ROBERT KENNEDY
Attorney General of the U.S.

As you walk down the hall in the Department of Justice building in Washington, there's nothing special to attract your attention to the new Intelligence Unit. Even if you were to open the door, all you would see is two rooms full of green file cabinets. But if you opened one of the files and leafed through one of the folders, you'd quickly understand that these innocent-looking files represent dynamite to the rackets.

There are more than 700 of these pooled information about suspected racketeers ever gathered from all 27 federal investigative agencies, ranging from the FBI, Internal Revenue Service and Bureau of Narcotics to the Food and Drug Administration, Coast Guard Intelligence and the Bureau of Labor-Management Reports.

THESE AGENCIES always have maintained their own files and investigated and taken action against law breakers in their specific fields. But never before has all this information been coordinated to provide a basis for a unified attack on organized crime.

These agencies are not only pooling information. They are pooling efforts. In one recent New York City case eight different agencies — five federal, one state and two foreign — cooperated in smashing a $150 million narcotics ring which smuggled heroin into this country in the false bottoms of trunks supplied to unsuspecting Italian immigrants.

The work was coordinated by the Organized Crime Section of our Criminal Division in the Justice Department.

The Bureau of Narcotics, whose work in the case was remarkable, worked closely with us. So did the United States Attorney's Office in Manhattan, the Customs Bureau, the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the Westchester County Sheriff's Office.

Later, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Italian police joined us in our efforts to trace the heroin flow and arrest the operators of the ring, on both sides of the Atlantic.

AS A RESULT, when we finally had the necessary evidence, we were able to dig up the roots as well as chop down the tree. Almost simultaneously, Italian police picked up a half-dozen men. The Mounties picked up three. And we indicted 24 others, working in this country.

The importance of the ring to the underworld can perhaps be measured by what has happened to some of the defendants since. One was shot to death. The body of another was found in a field, burned almost beyond recognition. A third man attempted suicide.

And three others jumped $50,000 bail and fled, first to the Caribbean, then to South America and finally to Spain. They were caught in Spain by the Bureau of Narcotics — which was able to pick up the trail because of a chance lead developed by the Mounties.

These three men will be tried soon. Eleven other men indicted with them already have been convicted and sentenced to long jail terms.

ANOTHER CASE made possible by close cooperation among agencies is expected to come to trial this summer. The nine defendants include one of the nation's top gambling figures. They are under indictment for evading nearly $400,000 in gambling excise taxes in connection with a $2 million-a-year numbers racket in a mid-western city.

This case was developed by the Internal Revenue Service and the FBI, both proud agencies, working shoulder-to-shoulder in an outstanding display of cooperative investigative work.

After briefing each other in their agencies' special techniques, RS and FBI agents spent four months in surveillance and undercover operations. These operations culminated in a raid and from it came the evidence on which we secured a grand jury indictment.

These are only two cases. There have been others which are not so dramatic. Still others are close to prosecution. And priority investigations are underway on every one of the 700 files in the Intelligence Unit — involving more than 1,500 individuals.

Whether our efforts will have lasting effect is something only time will tell. And coordination alone does not mean we will be able to prosecute successfully the cases which result from these investigations. But the value of coordinating the skills and efforts of all the investigative agencies of the United States Government against the rackets already has been demonstrated. It is a powerful weapon in a war we all must win.

A Calmer View

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Erroneous Impression Spread on Prayer Ruling

EN ROUTE TO EUROPE Somehow, as one leaves the tense atmosphere of present-day Washington and travels across calm seas aboard a comfortable ship like the SS United States, things come into perspective. For, despite all of our boasted inventions, we still fall every now and then in the art of communication as between the people and their government. Government by impression is too often substituted for government by factuality.

It wasn't just because Chief Justice Earl Warren of the Supreme Court of the United States happened to be aboard as a fellow passenger that this writer's mind turned to the recent decision in the so-called "prayer" case for this certainly has been continuously in the news.

What, indeed, was the real reason for the widespread misunderstanding of the Supreme Court's ruling? Could the misinterpretations have been avoided? This correspondent has for a long time felt that the highest court ought to do what some of the state courts do—namely, separate the ruling or conclusion reached from the explanation or reasoning used to arrive at the decision.

preme Court had really held—is tragic, but it is a consequence of the method or procedure now used by the court itself.

This writer believes that the Supreme Court would be rendering a service to the cause of a better understanding of its decisions if the specific ruling in every case were separated from the rest of the opinion, so that all of the "dicta"—the personal views and interpretations in the court's written opinion—would be clearly differentiated for the reporters who write the news dispatches on the court's decision day.

This is a change, of course, which all the justices would have to agree upon. It certainly wouldn't weaken in any respect the ruling itself. It wouldn't foreclose the expression of lengthy opinions explaining the background of and reasoning behind the ruling but it would assure greater emphasis on what the Supreme Court had actually ruled.

A change in procedure that is in the public interest should not be less welcome because it is unprecedented. This writer, for instance, persuaded Chief Justice Taft in 1926 to make available to the press on Mondays, instead of on Thursdays, the printed proofs of the full text of the Supreme Court's decisions.

EVER SINCE the establishment of the court, the newspapermen could give their newspapers on Mondays only summaries based on notes made hurriedly as the justices read aloud their decisions, which were often lengthy and highly technical. But the news-men couldn't see the actual texts until Thursday of the same week, when it was too late to rewrite their stories. Some wrong impressions were conveyed then, too.

This writer, incidentally, sympathizes with the plight of the justices, who cannot answer criticism themselves. They have, of course, a right of rebuttal, but they have always felt it was better not to exercise it. Chief Justice Warren, for example, has been criticized a good deal in recent years and unquestionably could make a spirited defense of his views if he chose, for he was elected to three terms as governor of California.

This correspondent, over a span of more than 50 years in Washington, has personally known the last six of the 13 chief justices of the United States.

EVERY ONE of them has felt the same way—that any participation by them in public discussion as an aftermath of Supreme Court decisions is unwise. They never hesitated, however, to discuss informally with their newspaper friends the problem involved in acquainting the public with the true nature of Supreme Court decisions.

It is a fair inference to say today that they all have wished there were some way the public, including the press, could come to understand better the limitations of judicial decisions in America.

Maybe the justices themselves would be helped in writing their opinions if they could understand the difficulties that even some of the best-informed people in the country have in adjusting themselves to the shifting winds of judicial history.

This And That

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Americans now have 10 million traffic accidents annually involving some 17 million cars or trucks. Since there are approximately 70 million vehicles, the grim fact of highway safety is that the average driver has nearly one chance in four of being in an accident each year.

Did you know that 500,000 people in this country now keep bees?

ICBM Force May Be Tripled This Year

U.S. Missile Muscles Bulge

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's missile muscles will bulge considerably more within the next month when possibly 54 more hydrogen-tipped Atlas and Titan missiles are placed in ready to fire positions.

And next week the Air Force plans to give the world—particularly Russia and Red China—a demonstration of that rising power by hurling an Atlas more than 7,000 miles from California to the Philippine Sea.

The United States already has 81 intercontinental ballistic missiles on sentry duty at launch pads in seven western states. Of these, 54 are Atlases and 27 the more powerful Titans.

Three More Bases

Three more bases for 12 Atlases each are reported quickly nearing completion at Schilling Air Force Base, Kan., Lincoln Air Force Base, Neb., and Atlas Air Force Base, Okla.

At the same time sources said, new bases for Titans are rounding into shape at Beale Air Force Base, Calif., and Larson Air Force Base, Wash. Each will mount nine of the mighty 94-foot tall Titans.

Meanwhile, work is moving ahead around Malmstrom Air Force Base in Montana where the Air Force hopes to have the first 20 of a planned force of 800 advanced Minuteman ICBMs in combat readiness before the end of the year.

Labor troubles, which were blamed for delays in finishing the launch bases, have eased, and Air Force officials anticipate few hitches in a months ahead—unless bad weather interferes with construction.

Prophecy May Come True

Thus, it appears that Maj. Gen. Thomas P. Gerrity, commander of the Air Force's ballistic systems division may see his prophecy come true—that "this year . . .

we will triple our operational ICBM force."

And in 1963, Gerrity has predicted, "We hope to triple it again."

In all, this country is building toward a force of more than 1,000 land-based missiles able to span oceans and plaster any enemy with a staggering tonnage of hydrogen destruction.

This does not count a planned fleet of 41 nuclear powered submarines, each armed with 16 deep striking Polaris missiles—an eventual Polaris total of 656 by 1967.

So far, nine Polaris boats are in commission and next year nine more are due to join the fleet. Polaris subs have been used until now for patrolling in the north Atlantic, within range of targets in Russia.

May Be Sent To Pacific

By late next year, the Navy hopes to start operating Polaris subs in the Pacific where they could strike the Asian flank of Russia and take Red China under fire, if necessary. Some also may be sent into the Mediterranean, to cover the Communist world's underbelly.

Back in the late 1950s, there were outspoken fears in this country that the Russians would heavily outweigh the United States in missile power during the 1960s.

But U. S. intelligence estimates have been revised drastically and all talk of a "missile gap" has vanished—unless it be a gap with the Russians on the short end.

A NATO intelligence report last December said Russia is likely to have several hundred ICBMs by 1963, but that the United States will have more.

And although the Russians are credited with having perhaps 20 missile firing submarines, their rockets are of relatively short range. They are not known to have anything to match the Polaris missile, which can streak more than 1,700 miles after being launched from a submarine beneath the ocean surface.

Range of 6,300 Miles

All U. S. ICBMs—the Atlas, Titan and Minuteman—have an operational range of more than 6,300 miles. At least four Atlases have been test-fired 9,000 miles from Cape Canaveral, Fla. into the Indian Ocean.

The Atlas was the first U. S. ICBM and has been modified several times. The 54 earliest operational Atlases are on above-ground launch pads or stored in concrete coffins from which they would be raised for firing.

These are considered vulnerable to enemy missile attack, but the last 72 Atlases—starting with those emplaced at Schilling, Lincoln and Altus—will be in deep, reinforced steel and concrete holes where they would be shielded from all but a direct atomic hit.

All 13 Atlas squadrons, totaling 129 missiles, are expected to be in the hands of the Strategic Air Command combat crews by the end of this year.

Three Squadrons On Line

The first Titans became operational only 2½ months ago and already three squadrons are on the line at Lowry Air Force Base in Colorado and at Allsworth Air Force Base in South Dakota.

These, plus three more Titan I squadrons due to join the force this year, are in "hardened" bases—that is, blastproof pits.

By the end of 1963 six squadrons of Titan II rockets—bigger and more potent than the Titan I—will swell the nation's missile arsenal in below-ground silos.

When this phase is finished, there will be 114 Titan I and Titan II missiles poised in 12 squadrons.

The Atlas and Titans are liquid fuel weapons and, although improved from early versions, are more difficult to maintain and not rated as reliable as the Minuteman, with its rubberlike solid fuel that is quicker to fire and can be kept in the rocket almost indefinitely.

GEMINI SPACE CRAFT

The Air Force Titan II, America's most powerful ICBM, is being modified by Martin Marietta Co., in Baltimore, Md., as the two-man Gemini space vehicle. Titan II, which generates 530,000 pounds of thrust, is shown boosting the Gemini in this artist's conception.

Minutemen will be arrayed in four wings of 150 missiles each and one wing of 200 spread over thousands of square miles of Montana, South Dakota, North Dakota, Missouri and Wyoming. The Minuteman is about 60 feet long and does not carry as big a warhead as either the Titan or Atlas—but its warhead is rated destructive enough to smash just about any city-size target.

Although present plans call for 800 Minutemen, the Air Force has been conducting soil tests in many places and it is possible the Kennedy administration may decide later to build even more of these weapons.

New Jersey. The tail man, a service station owner who was the rear guard, had motor trouble in Delaware and had to drop out of the procession.

The only other hazard the "pioneers" faced as they attempted to trace the path followed by Salem founder Zadok Street was big, black New Jersey mosquitoes, said Ford Baker, newsmen on the Passaic, N. J., Herald and member of the caravan. "At least in Salem we don't have to put up with those," Baker exclaimed.

Warnaar, a congenial man and inveterate trailer traveler, led the procession right behind the state patrol and historymobile. The group elected him in New Jersey because of his knowledge of the route.

Mrs. Leland Gilliland of Teaneck, a former Ohioan, and Mrs. Miriam H. Schley of Gillette, N. J., were enthusiastic over the welcome afforded them by Salem. "We didn't expect to find flags up for our arrival," they said, referring to the banners hung from poles along State St.

DONALD DAVIES, executive director of the New Jersey Tercentenary Commission, was the man who had the brainstorm for the trip. He brought along his wife and six children, including a five-month-old son, the youngest member of the party.

Following the official greeting of Davies, Warnaar and the group at the park, Roy W. Harris, 89-year-old retired printer, presented Davies with a copy of the history of Salem prepared by his wife, Elizabeth.

A banquet and reception for the men, women and children from New Jersey was held at the Memorial Building Friday night. After the all-night encampment at the park, the wagon train moved on early this morning to its next stop — Salem, Ind.

18 Buildings In City Are Possible Fallout Shelters

Visual surveys have been made of 18 buildings in the city which possibly could be used as fallout shelters, Salem Civil Defense Director Howard Heston reported at a recent meeting of that organization.

Local Civil Defense staff members are calling on managers of these buildings to obtain their permission to use the locations as fallout shelters and to explain the program. After the signatures are obtained, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will make a final survey to determine the number of persons to be sheltered in each location, Heston said.

A discussion was held on transportation and handling of equipment which will be designated for each shelter. Heston said that the local Civil Defense unit must transport this equipment to be made available by the federal government. After delivery, this equipment becomes the property of the local government, Heston reported.

The director also reviewed the county-wide Civil Defense organization that is being formed.

Another Cash Cache Found In N. Jersey

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—A second jackpot garage in Jersey City has yielded $168,675.52 in gambling cash, bringing the total find this week to more than $2.59 million.

With the latest haul, found Friday a block away from the first cache, police now figure they have uncovered two key installations in the gambling enterprise of Joseph (Newsboy) Moriarty—his office and his bank.

The newly discovered cache—over $100 bills to pennies—was turned up by police in a garage at 47 Oxford Ave. On Tuesday, $2,421,840 was found in an old car left in a garage at 123 Oxford Ave.

The latest money was stuffed in two big paper bags. An additional 45 grocery bags contained numbers slips and adding machine tapes.

Hudson County Prosecutor Lawrence A. Whipple said he was positive that Friday's find, as well as the $2.4 million, belonged to Moriarty, who is now serving a 2 to 3-year sentence in the state prison in Trenton on a gambling conviction.

Moriarty has declined to confirm or deny ownership of the cash hoard.

Police Director William V. McLaughlin said the garage apparently was the 52-year-old Moriarty's base of operations—in effect, his office. The $2.4 million cache was his bank.

Police said the "office" had not been used since February, when Moriarty went to jail. The numbers slips covered 58 days worth of play, ending Feb. 19, the day before Moriarty went to jail, Police Chief Austin J. Conley said.

The federal government, moving fast to get first crack at the $2.4 million found on Tuesday, has filed a $3,395,665.33 tax lien against Moriarty.

Jumping $100,000 bail, Soblen earlier had fled to Israel on a forged passport after an American court rejected his appeal from the life sentence.

Before American officials could act Friday on the word that he was well enough to leave, Soblen's lawyers got the writ of habeas corpus.

All three men will be certified and be placed on the waiting list for filling vacancies as they arise.

Truck Hits Car On Rt. 170; None Hurt

No one was injured in a tractor-trailer mishap on Rt. 170 at 2:45 p.m. Friday, four miles north of Rt. 30, near Calcutta, the State Patrol reported.

A tractor-trailer operated by Robert William Grim, 18, of RD 1, East Palestine, struck the rear of an auto driven by William Endicott, 45, of East Liverpool. Both vehicles were going north on Rt. 170.

Grim told the patrol that when he came around a curve and saw Endicott's auto stopped on the highway, he applied the brakes but the trailer slid sideways and rammed the rear of the car. Considerable damage was done to Endicott's vehicle.

Patrol said that both drivers have conflicting accounts of the accident. Grim disclosed that Endicott's auto appeared to be backing up as he came around the curve and Endicott reports that he was having difficulty getting the car to run.

No one was arrested, the Patrol said.

Judge Joel H. Sharp released him on his own recognizance. He will enter a tuberculosis hospital in Pennsylvania.

The illness was discovered after Leak underwent a Mantoux test which read positive. An X-ray taken by Dr. F. G. Kravec, director of the Columbiana TB Clinic, confirmed presence of the disease.

dence of influence dealings connected with Estes' big money manipulations under farm aid programs.

Dumas and Stone's testimony was reported on Capitol Hill to have stirred more investigating activity along similar lines by the Agriculture Department's investigating staff, the Justice Department and congressional probes themselves.

The subcommittee is inquiring at the moment into profitable deals by Estes in allegedly illegal transfers of cotton acreage allotments from other states to his own lands in Texas.

Just what Dumas and Stone did in return for the money they said the Estes enterprises paid them remained obscure.

Parnell E. Biggerstaff, a former agent for Estes, testified he paid them for providing valuable information to help him in the allotment deals for Estes. Dumas and Stone said they gave him no information they wouldn't have given to anyone else. Biggerstaff, on the one hand, and the two officials on the other, disagreed as to who had made the first overture for the payments.

Auto Sales Near Boom Year Record

DETROIT (AP)—New car sales for the first six months of this year came within a few percentage points of the 1955 boom year pace despite a Ford production stoppage last month.

This was the gist of reports released Friday by major auto firms and Ward's Automotive Report.

June sales continued strong even though a strike in Ohio resulted in a shutdown of Ford car assembly for a week.

January-June figures showed 3,446,563 cars sold compared with 3,519,629 for the first six months of the all-time record selling year, 1955.

Ford and American Motors previously had reported sales increases in comparison with the first half of 1961.

The industry was up 14 per cent from last year's first six months.

until the federal mediation board formally terminates its services in the dispute. This is expected within a few days.

And in Washington, Robert O. Boyd, National Mediation Board member, said neither side could make a move until 30 days after the board formally notifies each side of the other's response to the arbitration offer.

"If any railroad puts into effect any part of the presidential railroad commission's recommendations arbitrarily, I'll guarantee that carrier won't be running," commented Roy E. Davidson, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and a participant in Friday's meeting here.

After the 30 days, however, the carriers legally could put the economies into effect and the rail brotherhoods could strike, unless the President intervened by naming an emergency board to recommend a settlement. This would head off a strike for another 60 days or more.

H.E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, said he expected the carriers to try to put the manpower economies into effect after the 30-day time limit. The railroads are "playing with dynamite" trying to test the mettle of their workers, Gilbert warned.

Wolfe said if President Kennedy did name an emergency board "in our opinion it is very unlikely that an emergency board could discover anything in its statutory powers that the presidential railroad commission could not discover in its 13 months of exhaustive labor."

Topsy-Turvy Wimbledon In Last Day

By GEOFFREY MILLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—

The most topsy-turvy Wimbledon tennis tournament of all time went into its last day today with four finals scheduled—three of them featuring unseeded players.

The upsets, unprecedented at Wimbledon, continued into the last semifinals Friday. This was how the final day's program shaped up:

Czech Meets U.S. Girl

Mrs. Vera Sukova, a baseline player from Czechoslovakia who started the tournament as a rank outsider, faced graceful Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of Chula

Vista, Calif., in the final of the women's singles. The American girl was seeded No. 8.

Two virtually unknown Yugo-

slavs, Boris Jovanovic and Nicola

Pilić, who got to the final of the men's doubles almost unnoticed, were matched against the Australian pair of Bob Hewitt and Fred Stolle, the second seeds.

Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield,

Calif., and Ann Haydon of Britain, playing together for the first time, were in the mixed doubles final. They were to play two

Wimbledon veterans, Neale Fraser of Australia and Mrs. Margaret du Pont of Wilmington,

Del., who were seeded third.

The women's doubles is the only event that has gone true to form. The defending champions,

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach

Calif., and Mrs. Susman, faced fourth seeded Mrs. Sandra Reynolds Price and Renee Schuurman of South Africa.

Laver Wins Singles Title

Rod Laver of Australia, in an electrifying display of driving, smashing and volleying that lasted 52 minutes, retained the men's singles crown Friday by defeating Martin Mulligan of Australia, 6-2, 6-1.

Mulligan was another unseeded player who upset all predictions

by reaching the final. A crowd of 14,000, including Queen Elizabeth II and Princess Margaret, saw him demolished and broken by Laver in one of the most crushing exhibitions of tennis ever seen in a Wimbledon final.

The red-haired Australian now needs to win at Forest Hills to equal Donald Budge's unique

"grand slam" of 1938. He had already won the Australian and French titles.

Mets Batter Cardinals 12-3; Giants ½ Game From Top Spot

Marichal Cools Dodgers; Bucs' Streak Ends; Reds Lose

Juan Marichal has a simple formula in his highly successful pitching campaign for the San Francisco Giants this season: Starting plus finishing equals winning.

The youthful right-hander from the Dominican Republic followed his formula Friday night, firing a 5-hitter and striking out 13 as the Giants cooled off Los Angeles 12-3. It was Marichal's 12th victory, all complete games, and it moved San Francisco to within a half game of the National League-leading Dodgers—who had won eight in a row.

Giants Rap 11 Hits

Collecting 11 hits off loser Stan Williams and reliever Ed Roebuck, and capitalizing on an out-break of Dodger misplays, the Giants scored in clusters. They netted four runs in the third inning, five in the fifth and three in the sixth. Meanwhile, Marichal set the Dodgers down without a hit after a homer by Frank Howard in the fourth gave them their third run.

Elsewhere in the National League there were other cases of streaks ending. Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 6-2, snapping a string of eight losses for the Phillies and seven victories for the Pirates. Hal Woodeshick pitched a 2-0 shut-out over Cincinnati for the Houston Colts, who had lost five straight. And New York's lowly Mets, whose latest run of defeats had reached three, battered St. Louis 10-3. In the NL's other game, Milwaukee overcame Chicago 5-3 on Eddie Mathews' 2-run homer in the 10th inning.

After spotting the Dodgers a 2-0 lead, the Giants assumed command in the third with their four runs off Williams, who let in the first run with a bases loaded balk. Felipe Alou's sacrifice fly tied it up, then Orlando Cepeda's single, an error by Willie Davis and Tom Haller's double put San Francisco ahead to stay.

Cepeda was the Giants' top hitter with three singles, while Marichal was the top runs-batted-in man with three, on a fly and a single.

A rt Mahaffey pitched a 7-hitter as the Phillies ended their losing string and was backed by a 14-hit barrage against Pirate starter Bob Friend and three successors. Roy Sievers and John Callison had three hits each for the Phils, while Tony Gonzalez and Clay Dalrymple homered. Mahaffey, now 10-9, blanked the Pirates until the ninth, when a single by Bob Skinner and doubles by Roberto Clemente and Jim Marshall produced two Pittsburgh runs.

Woodeshick was in several jams as the Reds nicked him for eight hits and Houston committed four errors, but he choked off every threat for his shutout. The Colts managed just seven hits but bunched three of them, along with a sacrifice fly and an error, for their two runs off Joey Jay in the second.

Rod Kanehl hit the first grand homer in the Mets' brief history; capping a 6-run uprising in the eighth inning of their runaway over the Cards. Gil Hodges started the Mets off with a homer in the second, the 370th of his career, against loser Ray Sadecki. Two more runs in the third chased Sadecki, Charlie Neal homered off Bob Duliba in the fifth, and the Mets closed out with their big eighth against Bobby Shantz. Roger Craig was the winning pitcher in the Mets' third victory in their last 12 games.

Mathews' homer was the third for the Braves and came after a costly error by Ernie Banks, who dropped the throw to first on Ken Apromonte's grounder with two out in the 10th. Hank Aaron hit his 20th homer in the fourth with the bases empty and Joe Adcock hit his 12th with one on in the seventh. Mathews' was his 16th. Banks led Chicago with four hits, driving in two runs. Claude Raymond was the winning pitcher in relief and Cub starter Don Cardwell was the lower.

M&Ms' Homers Spark Yank Win; Angels Lose, Fall to 3rd

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Healthy Roger Maris and hobbled Mickey Mantle have detonated a homer explosion for the New York Yankees. But the world champions' sluggers had to share some of the spotlight today with a former National Leaguer who led Cleveland back into first place in the American League.

While the M&M boys each hammered two homers in a 7-5 bombing of Minnesota Friday, 35-year-old veteran right-hander Ruben Gomez won his first game in the AL as the Indians extended their longest winning streak of the season to five games by beating the Chicago White Sox 5-3.

Angels Fall From Lead

Gomez' triumph enabled the Indians to break a deadlock with Los Angeles for the top spot. Belted by Boston 12-7, the Angels tumbled into third place, a game back, while the Yankees moved into second place, a half-length back of the leaders in the tight race.

Maris and Mantle were the story again for the Yankees. Maris hit his first homer with two on in the first inning and Mantle followed with his 16th. Mantle tagged another in the third, tying a major league record with homers in four consecutive at-bats, before Maris wound it up with his 21st, in the fifth inning. The homers were the eighth and ninth in 11 games for Maris and his fifth in five games, while Mantle, still slowed by leg injuries, has hit eight in nine games and seven in the last five. The Yankees now have a team total of 100.

Wertz Gives Tigers Win

A pinch-hit homer by Vic Wertz in the bottom of the ninth gave Detroit a 5-4 decision over Baltimore. Kansas City used a 7-run eighth inning outburst to whip Washington 12-9 in other AL games.

Maris drove in four runs with his homers and Mantle accounted for two, but Ralph Terry (11-7) needed Luis Arroyo's no-hit relief for the final 2-1-3 innings to post the victory. Terry left after a pinch-hit homer by George Banks in the seventh.

No-hit pitchers Bo Belinsky of the Angels and Earl Wilson of the Red Sox started. Belinsky (7-4) left after walking four men as Boston scored five runs in the first inning and Wilson departed in the fourth as Los Angeles came up with five. Pete Runnels drove in four Red Sox runs with a homer, single and sacrifice fly while Jim Pagliaroni knocked in three with a homer and two singles. Arnold Earley (3-1) won it.

Wilhelm Suffers Loss

Wertz cracked the first pitch served by Orioles' knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm (3-6) for the game-winner after Wilhelm had checked

Lisbon Hotel, Democrats Win In Class A

Italian Club Snaps Odom's Streak 3-2

The Italian Club used three errors in the last of the sixth inning to hand league-leading Odom's

Sohio a 3-2 defeat that ended a six-game winning streak in one of three Class A battles Friday at Kelley Park.

In other games, the Lisbon Hotel moved to within one game of Odom's with a lopsided 11-1 victory over Bliss and the Salem Ford 13-8.

Odom's record is now 11-3 while second place Lisbon has a 10-4 record, which is only one game behind the league leaders.

THE LOSERS MOVED out to a 2-0 lead over the Italian Club at the end of five frames of action. Singles by Jim Smith and George Alek and a sacrifice fly by Tom Ehrhart pushed a tally across the plate in the third and Smith rapped a homer in the fifth canto to up the count to 2-0 for Odom's.

The Italian Club went to work in the last of the sixth frame as three unearned tallies were scored as a result of miscues by Odom's.

John DeFavero started things off by reaching base on an error and was followed by Jim Hughes getting to first on a miscue. Dick Jefferies got a hit on an error, Jim Foreman walked and Dave Schuster singled and the Italian Club had its eighth win in 14 starts locked up.

Jefferies collected two of the three Italian Club hits off Odom's hurlers Don Fife and Tom Ehrhart.

Smith paced the Odom's attack with two safeties.

THE LISBON HOTEL RAPPED 12 hits in rolling over the Bliss with Lou Talbot and Jerry Bryson showing the way with three hits in three trips to the plate each.

Bliss took an early 1-0 lead on successive triples by Orville Blyth and Bill Morrison.

The winners exploded with three runs in the second on a triple by Talbot and doubles by Gib Cannon and Bryson. Bryson's home run, Jim Eckstine's triple and Bob Huffman's double powered the Hotel nine into, a 9-1 lead after three innings of play and the winners coasted to victory.

Bryson was the winning hurler walked two and fanned one. Bruce Riley suffered the loss.

The Salem Democrats poured six tallies across the plate in the first inning on a double by Jeff Wilson and singles by Chuck Henderson, Chuck Wilson and Laird Bowersock showing the way.

THREE WALKS AND ANOTHER single by Chuck Wilson put the winners into a 7-0 margin after one and a half frames. However, Shaffer's came back with a six-run rally in the last of the second on singles by Eldon Moore, Tom Cope, Jerry Stayton and Tom Yarwood and a double by Harley Huffman.

The Democrats ended their scoring on Bob Morrison's homer and Jack Mudger's double in the seventh canto, pushing two tallies across the saucer.

Chuck Wilson collected four hits in five trips to the plate to lead the way for the Democrats.

Moore socked three safeties to feature for the Shaffer nine.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

A word from THERON at the Old Country Store

To the lady who says my articles don't make sense. You (aint) so smart either, you forgot to sign your name. You say they are a laugh and the comic page is the place for them. I usually laugh when I write them and the comic page is my choice also. These articles bring me people, that means dollars, the heck with the sense, my customers take the (cents) home in their pockets. If they come often it means dollars for them and they don't have to lick them to spend them.

Thoughts

For unto us was the gospel preached, as well as unto them: but the word preached did not profit them, not being mixed with faith in them that heard it. — Hebrews 4:2. In actual life every great enterprise begins with and takes its first forward step in faith.—August W. Schlegel.

Two Wounded In Holdup Try

Cleveland Officer, Bandit In Hospital

CLEVELAND (AP) — It was a telephone conversation between two sisters that gave police the jump on a robbery attempt in a downtown office building Friday. Two men were captured after a gun battle in which a holdup man and a policeman were shot.

The gunfight was at the Sun Finance & Loan Co. on the second floor of the Caxton Building, 812 Huron Road, during the lunch hour.

Traffic Patrolman Alvin Character, 34, first of about 30 policemen who responded to a robbery-in-progress call, was wounded in the upper right arm by a shotgun blast. At St. Vincent Charity Hospital doctors said his arm might have to be amputated.

Also in guarded condition at the hospital was Edward T. Spaulding, 24, the policeman's assailant, who was shot three times in the abdomen.

Miss Lucy Mastropietro, 33, a loan company employee, was talking to her sister, Mrs. Anthony J. Ciarrillo, on the telephone when the gunmen entered.

Mrs. Ciarrillo said she thought she heard a voice say "hang up" and the click of the telephone as the phone went dead. She said her sister had been telling her she thought there was going to be a holdup. Mrs. Ciarrillo phoned police, and an alarm was broadcast.

Police identified Spaulding's accomplice as Clarence E. Steplight, 21, who was captured when he crawled out to an inner corridor during the shooting.

A third man was nabbed during the confusion, but he told police he was in the office only to apply for a loan. He was still being questioned Friday night.

Spaulding was seized in the tear-gas-filled office by a squad of six men. He had barricaded himself behind office furniture.

James A. Shima, assistant manager of the loan company, said Spaulding and Steplight came in shortly after noon and inquired about a loan, but left when they were told they would need co-signers. They returned a few minutes later with a shotgun, announced it was a holdup and started herding employees into a back room.

Shima said Spaulding took the key to a cash drawer from around the neck of Miss Mary Fitzpatrick, 18, an office trainee. He forced Miss Fitzpatrick to put $1,100 in bills in a shopping bag just before Patrolman Character entered, police said. The money was found on the floor.

Character's cruiser partners — Patrolmen Frank Mulgrew, 27, and Eugene Withers, 36 — burst in as the first shotgun blast was fired.

"Both of us shot him (Spaulding)," Withers said.

A large crowd gathered to watch the battle, ignoring police warnings of danger from stray bullet.

Bunche Terms Hotel Rejection Racial Affront

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, an American Negro who won the Nobel Peace Prize, described the refusal of a hotel to reserve a room for him as an affront to his race in a speech shortly after he received the key to the city.

"I do not miss the hotel," said Bunche, who is undersecretary for special political affairs of the United Nations. "But I resent the rejection as an affront to my group, just as I experience deep insult whenever I see the hateful signs colored 'and white'."

"I grant to anyone the right to find me unacceptable as a person, as an individual; but never to indict my group and slur my ancestry as the reason for rejecting me," he told the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Friday night.

Bunche said he wrote the Hotel Dinkler Plaza for a reservation a month ago and was advised that additional reservations were not being accepted for July 5-6 "with any hope of fulfilling them."

George Fowler, the hotel manager, said "the reservation was declined along with several others. We were just booked up." In reply to a question, Fowler said the hotel never has had Negroes as overnight guests.

The Dinkler Plaza was one of 10 hotels and 6 restaurants picketed by about 400 of the 1,500 convention delegates during the week. The demonstrations protested segregation at some of the establishments.

Bunche said he has fewer racial experiences now than before. "I know why and I do not mind it," he said.

"In any case, this is beside the point I seek to make. The point is that no individual Negro can be free from degradation of racial discrimination until every Negro is free of it."

He added:

"Until all racial discrimination is ended here, progress can never be fast enough and every deprived underprivileged Negro will be immensely impatient or he isn't really worthy of the rights to which he is entitled and wishes to exercise."
